

Soho Strut
THE MOJO WHEN YOU'RE IN SOHO

Soho Strut is SoHo's first and only neighborhood blog

Soho Strut launched in May 2013 when Danielle, a SoHo resident, realized that the area lacked a local voice - community news, local events and neighborhood gossip. Originating as a blog, Soho Strut has become a network that connects SoHo-based business owners, retail managers, and residents through a robust online and offline community with monthly & quarterly meet-ups. Soho Strut provides an opportunity for business owners and managers in SoHo to talk to each other, work with each other, and ultimately strengthen their businesses and community.

Soho Strut Strives To Make Community A Common Thought

Business Owners & Retailers

Meet Danielle

Danielle has been a resident of SoHo for the past four years. Her initial fascination of SoHo began in the 90's after staying with her cousin every year on Spring Street. Danielle eventually landed an apartment on Sullivan Street (score!) and became fully emerged in the sub-culture of SoHo.

Danielle previously worked in financial services as an auditor (with an attitude) and is currently in residential real estate at Corcoran SoHo. Soho Strut is an embodiment of Danielle's vision to create a centralized online community for SoHo and Nolita business owners, retail managers and residents.
